The Middle East Petroleum & Gas Week (MPGC Week) 2017 organised by The Conference Connection Inc. will take place from April 29 to May 4 at the Grand Hyatt Dubai, UAE, with Emirates National Oil Company (ENOC Group) as hosts.

The Annual MPGC Week, now in its 25th year has an integrated umbrella of activities held in conjunction with the its anchor event, the annual Middle East Petroleum & Gas Conference (MPGC), well-recognised as the longest running annual oil & gas conference in the Middle East which is an established platform for both knowledge sharing and networking for senior executive, policymakers, industry specialists, and professional advisers.

MPGC Week 2017 will bring together eight optional events including conferences, executive briefings, and global workshops, running back-to-back in one location in one week for optimal learning and networking opportunities. As hosts for these events, ENOC Group's senior management are expected to take a high profile as chairs and speakers. Over 650 participants from 50 countries are expected to attend the week's activities.

His Highness Sheikh Ahmed bin Rashid Al Maktoum, Chairman of the Dubai Supreme Council of Energy, President of Dubai Civil Aviation Authority, and Chairman & Chief Executive of Emirates Group will grace the joint official opening of MPGC and MEB 2017.

His Excellency Saif Humaid Al Falasi, Group CEO, ENOC, said: "The UAE has been leading the way in discussions around the sustenance of the oil market and engaging in dialogue with similar stakeholders. Events like MPGC provides delegates with a prime opportunity to discuss issues impacting the industry and to build relationships with the key industry experts."

This is the first time that the Middle East Bitumen/Asphalt (MEB) conference will be held concurrently with MPGC 2017 with both conferences commencing Monday, May 1, to be co-chaired by His Excellency Saif Humaid Al Falasi and Dr Fereidun Fesharaki, Chairman of FGE, with prominent Dubai personalities and captains of industry including government officials, senior management and board members of ENOC attending the joint official opening.

Among different sessions at MPGC, some of the key topics of discussion include Global & Middle East Geopolitics and Economics, as well as Crude Oil Trading and Pricing panel on May 1 with panels on the Outlook for LNG in the Middle East and session on petroleum products, refining and shipping on May 2.

For the first time, the exhibition will showcase hosts for MPGC and NOCs who have supported MPGC including ADNOC, BAPCO, ENOC Group, KPC and Saudi Aramco.

The conclusion of MPGC and MEB 2017 will lead into other post-event activities on Wednesday, May 3 and Thursday, May 4. ENOC Group and Conference Connection will also co-host the 6th Annual Base Oil & Lubes Middle East Conference (BLM 2017) and Inaugural Middle East Retail & Downstream Conference (MRDC 2017).

Sponsors for the week's events include: ENOC Group, Dubai Mercantile Exchange, S&P Global Platts, Uniper Global Commodities SE, Vitol, and Al-Jaber.
